Occasional Papers

These Occasional Papers are part of a series edited by Allan Davidson. They have been published in small booklet form and are more substantial than the AHS Papers that have been distributed through the AHS Newsletters. These Occasional Papers are available for viewing and borrowing at Kinder Library, Saint John's College, Auckland.

Paper Four:

- Title: Caught in the Crossfire: A Revisionist Approach to Philo-Maori in New Zealand History, 1850-1870
- Author: Earle Howe
- Published 2000
- ISSN: 1173-6755
- ISBN 0-9583528-3-6
- Description: A succinct account of the sympathy which a prominent group of Anglican clergy and lay people had for Māori rights, culminating in their protests over the Crown's contested acquisition of land at Waitara and the First Taranaki War. The paper accounts for the reasons this protest was not sustained as Anglican loyalty and support of British sovereignty clashed with the assertion of Māori nationalism and Kingitanga.
